To Whom it May Concern

I have known Heidi Raki for over three years, as I was fortunate enough to work with her at the American Academy Casablanca. There I observed a dedicated, professional, nurturing teacher adapting to the international field with flexibility and skill. I would highly recommend Heidi Raki for a teaching position.

Heidi works tirelessly to deliver an exciting curriculum to her class, developing and adapting her resources and assessments to meet the standards. Heidi remains at the forefront of developments in education and it is evident she continually strives to become a better teacher, by her commitment to professional development.

As I have known Heidi since the very start of her life here in Morocco, I have seen a teacher thrive in the challenge and stimulation of a different working environment. Heidi threw herself into the needs of the children in her class, balancing her family and work life with ease.

Heidi is a true team player. She is reliable and conscientious when it comes to responsibilities - with a direct, logical approach to problems that arise. She communicates clearly and compassionately with parents, in order to bring out the best in each and every student. She is respected by all.

Heidi is a true professional with a dedication to education that is rare to find. Teaching is her true vocation and any school would be very fortunate to welcome her loyalty, and sheer skill.
